Net debt to EBITDA ratio: Net debt means the sum of bank overdrafts, current portion of long-term debt and long-term debt, less cash. EBITDA represents income from operations before depreciation and amortization. The Company believes that EBITDA is useful to both management and investors in evaluating the Company’s operating performance compared to that of other companies in its industry. Our calculation of EBITDA allows us to compare our operating results with those of other companies without giving effect to financing, income taxes and the accounting effects of capital spending, which items may vary for different companies for reasons unrelated to the overall operating performance of a company’s business. The ratio of net debt to EBITDA is a measure used by management to assess the level of leverage. EBITDA and the ratio of net debt to EBITDA are not measures of performance under accounting principles generally accepted in the United States (U.S. GAAP). These non-GAAP measures are not meant to be considered in isolation or as a substitute for items appearing on our financial statements prepared in accordance with U.S. GAAP. In addition, Luxottica Group’s method of calculating EBITDA and the ratio of net debt to EBITDA may differ from methods used by other companies. See the tables on the following pages for a reconciliation of net debt to long-term debt, which is the most directly comparable U.S. GAAP financial measure, a reconciliation of EBITDA to income from operations, which is the most directly comparable U.S. GAAP financial measure, as well as the calculation of the ratio of net debt to EBITDA. These non-GAAP measures should be used as a supplement to U.S. GAAP results to assist the reader in better understanding the operational performance of the Company.

Net Working Capital: Net working capital means total current assets, net of cash, minus total current liabilities, net of bank overdrafts and the current portion of long-term debt. Luxottica Group believes that net working capital is useful information to both management and investors because it allows them to assess the short-term capital used in operating the business. Net working capital is a non-GAAP measure and is not meant to be considered in isolation or as a substitute for items appearing on our financial statements prepared in accordance with U.S. GAAP. In addition, Luxottica Group’s method of calculating net working capital may differ from methods used by other companies. See the table on the next page for a reconciliation of net working capital to total current assets, which is the most directly comparable U.S. GAAP financial measure. Non-U.S. GAAP Measures Notes

Constant Exchange Rates: Luxottica Group uses certain measures of financial performance that exclude the impact of fluctuations in currency exchange rates in the translation of operating results into Euro. The Company believes that these adjusted financial measures provide useful information to both management and investors by allowing a comparison of operating performance on a consistent basis. In addition, since Luxottica Group has historically reported such adjusted financial measures to the investment community, the Company believes that their inclusion provides consistency in its financial reporting. Further, these adjusted financial measures are one of the primary indicators management uses for planning and forecasting in future periods. Operating measures that assume constant exchange rates between the first six months of 2006 and the first six months of 2005 and the second quarter of 2006 and the second quarter of 2005 are calculated using for each currency the average exchange rate for the six-month period and the three-month period ended June 30, 2005, respectively. Operating measures that exclude the impact of fluctuations in currency exchange rates are not measures of performance under U.S. GAAP. These non-GAAP measures are not meant to be considered in isolation or as a substitute for results prepared in accordance with U.S. GAAP. In addition, Luxottica Group’s method of calculating operating performance excluding the impact of changes in exchange rates may differ from methods used by other companies. The adjusted financial measures should be used as a supplement to U.S. GAAP results to assist the reader in better understanding the operational performance of the Company.

Additional information regarding constant exchange rate figures and retail comparable store sales, as required by Regulation G, is available in the notes to Luxottica Group’s first quarter of 2006 earnings release. See www.luxottica.com, section investor relations, press releases.
