

The delay of the sun season in Europe temporarily impacts sales, but it does not affect the 2018 outlook

Luxottica Group's first quarter net sales were Euro 2,136 million, -0.8% at constant exchange rates²

- Wholesale division's net sales were Euro 830 million, -4.2% at constant exchange rates²
- Retail division's net sales were Euro 1,306 million, +1.3% at constant exchange rates²

2018 outlook confirmed

Milan, Italy, April 27, 2018 - The Board of Directors of Luxottica Group S.p.A. (MTA: LUX), a leader in the design, manufacture, distribution and sale of fashion, luxury and sports eyewear, met today to review the consolidated net sales for the first quarter of 2018 in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) as issued by the International Accounting Standards Board.

Net sales for the first quarter 2018¹

(Millions of Euro)	1Q 2018	1Q 2017 restated ⁴	Change at constant exchange rates ²	Change at current exchange rates
Group net sales	2,136	2,391	-0.8%	-10.7%
Wholesale division	830	934	-4.2%	-11.1%
Retail division	1,306	1,458	+1.3%	-10.4%

Luxottica closed the first quarter of 2018 with sales down by 0.8% at constant exchange rates² due to the temporary slowdown in Europe caused by a delayed sun season and the restructuring of the wholesale business in China.

Wholesale division's net sales, down 4.2% at constant exchange rates², were affected by the negative performance of Europe, where unfavorable weather led to the postponement of orders in March, a month which typically generates half of the wholesale sales for the quarter. The new commercial policies for European online operators and wholesale customers, and the completion of the restructuring of the distribution in China also affected quarterly net sales.

The Retail division grew in the quarter by 1.3% at constant exchange rates², with comparable store sales³ down by 0.6%. Positive sales were driven by Sunglass Hut in North America (comparable store sales³ up by 7.6%), retail brands in China and Australia, Target Optical and the e-commerce business worldwide, which recorded an increase² of 16% thanks to Ray-Ban.com and SunglassHut.com. These positive results offset the slowdown of the sun segment in Europe and negative sales of LensCrafters, which is still focused on transforming its business model.

"The decrease in quarterly sales, which were mainly impacted by unfavorable weather conditions in Europe, does not highlight the positive results we have achieved in many businesses and geographies thanks to our product innovation, the improvement of the consumer experience in our stores, and the development of our e-commerce platforms. Sales performance at constant currency does not affect the Group's quarterly profitability, which remains sustained and solid," commented Leonardo del Vecchio.

"We are continuing to invest in the Group's long-term growth by adopting all the initiatives we consider necessary. After China, we have adjusted our distribution and commercial policies in Europe, which are now consistent and balanced between the different sales channels and aimed at fighting counterfeit and parallel. We want to be closer to our customers, with innovations that can benefit the entire industry. The large investments in new technologies will offer our customers all the advantages that digital transformation can deliver, enhancing brands and collections."

"The many positive signals from the markets, such as the excellent performance of Sunglass Hut and our e-commerce platforms, push us to look at the results of the whole year with confidence and confirm our outlook for 2018."

The proposed combination between Essilor and Luxottica was unconditionally cleared by the antitrust authorities in Europe, the United States, Canada and Brazil, four of the five jurisdictions where antitrust approvals are a condition precedent to the closing of the transaction. In China, the proposed combination is still under review by the local antitrust authority. The transaction is expected to close in the first half of 2018 and has also been approved in 14 other jurisdictions: Australia, Chile, Colombia, India, Israel, Japan, Mexico, Morocco, New Zealand, Russia, Singapore, South Africa, South Korea and Taiwan.

North America

In the first quarter of 2018, North America recorded net sales at constant exchange rates² in line with those of the same period last year. The Wholesale division grew by 0.5% at constant exchange rates², thanks to the solid growth of Ray-Ban, especially in the sun segment, as well as the key accounts and e-commerce business. The Retail division reported unchanged sales compared to the first quarter of last year at constant exchange rates². The excellent performance of Sunglass Hut, Target Optical, Pearle Vision, Group's e-commerce platforms (mainly Ray-Ban.com and SunglassHut.com) and EyeMed in Managed Vision Care, fully balanced the still negative sales of LensCrafters.

Europe

After twelve consecutive quarters of solid growth, Europe reported a decline of 4.1% at constant exchange rates² due to the combined effect of the standardization of commercial policies and the delay in the beginning of the sun season in March. In the quarter, the Group refined its selective distribution agreements, introduced new ways of managing online customers and invested in digitalizing communications in the wholesale channel to improve customer relationships. The unstable weather conditions in the second part of the quarter penalized the retail business, which still reported a slight increase in net sales compared to the same period of 2017.

Asia-Pacific

Net sales at constant exchange rates² in Asia-Pacific remained almost unchanged during the quarter. The positive contribution of Australia, Japan, India and travel retail offsets the negative performance of China, where the Group is completing the restructuring of its distribution channel in favor of a direct relationship with the final consumer. The region benefited from the excellent performance of the retail business, with the strong growth of Sunglass Hut, OPSM in Australia and LensCrafters and Ray-Ban stores in China.

Latin America

In the first quarter, Latin America reported sales up 2.6% at constant exchange rates². The strong contribution of Brazil drove results, where the Group also launched a new commercial organization to improve customer proximity and service and reported an excellent performance of Óticas Carol. The Retail division benefited from the growth of Sunglass Hut sales and the promising start of the first Ray-Ban stores in the region.
